A beautiful grey stone building with a two story owners unit and separate garden unit in Lakeview. The design accommodates a long-term plan to convert the lower level into an entertainment center, wine cellar and additional storage.

The clients are exceptional cooks and entertainers. The first floor was redesigned to open up the space for a chefs kitchen, hor d'ourves sitting area, flexible dining area for large or small parties and separate formal living room with a fireplace and bay windows.

The staircase was centered and enclosed creating a narrow & dark floor plan for both the first and second floor.

This design placed the stair as a focal point when you enter the house and provided an exposed decorative railing with a skylight that significantly enhanced the natural light into both floors.
